Unit 2 His hobby is drawing

Let's read

Mike is a great painter. His hobby is drawing cartoons. He likes drawing animals. Every day, after school, Mike takes his coloured pencils and draws a picture. Sometimes he draws his pet dog or a bird in the sky. He will draw birthday cards for his friends on their birthday.

Mike's cousin, Amy likes drawing, too. But she doesn't like drawing animals. She likes drawing interesting people and beautiful places. You can see her drawings in every room in her house. When she grows up she wants to be a painter.

Mrs Knott, the mother bear, and her son are lost in the forest. They go into a house and find no one is in it and there are many kinds of food, forks, spoons and knives on the table. "Can I eat the food, Mum? I'm hungry," asks her son. "No," Mrs Knott says. "The owner isn't here. We shouldn't eat the food. Let's go away."

Unit 10 Different tastes

Let's read

We all know Chinese and Western food is often very different. Chinese people like eating rice or noodles, but western people eat bread. Chinese people use chopsticks and bowls but in the West, people usually eat their meals on a plate with a knife and fork.

But do you know that people in China have different tastes, too? People from Guangzhou, for example, enjoy sweet and sour food most. They also eat plenty of delicious dimsum. In Beijing, people eat more noodles, pancakes and dumplings. They also like salty food. People from Sichuan love hot food. Some people think it's too hot and tastes terrible. But I love Sichuan food!

People around the world like to celebrate their birthday with different kinds of food. In China, sometimes we cook noodles for people on their birthday because noodles mean long life in China. Some families will cook eggs, too. In the UK or the USA, people will make a birthday cake when it's someone's birthday. In Brazil (巴西), people eat sweets on their birthday. And in Iceland, people eat pancakes with fruit.

Questions:

(1) Why do Chinese people have noodles on their birthday?

(2) What will American people do on their birthday?

Unit 12 Four seasons in one day

Let's read

Dear Mary,

Today was my first day in England and I learned something interesting about the weather here. It was cold in the morning. The weather report said the temperature was only 15℃, so I put on lots of clothes before I went to my new school. But when I was outside, the weather quickly changed. The clouds went away; the sky turned blue and the sun started to shine. I was so hot! Then at lunchtime I wanted to go to the playground, but the sky was black and it was raining hard. I had no umbrella. I thought, "How can I go home after school? " But when school finished at 3 p.m., there was no rain. Now it was very windy and cool. I put on my coat and walked home. So it's really true. In England, you can have four seasons in one day.

Yours,
Wang Jun

3 Read and answer.

Hi Tom, here is the information about New Zealand's weather you asked for. I think it's very different from China's weather. In New Zealand, it's very hot from November to February and quite cold between June and August.

December is hot and June is cool. Summer is from November to February. This is the best time to visit New Zealand. It's usually from 22℃ to 30℃. People like to swim in the sea to keep cool. The beaches are very busy. People also play sport like volleyball on the beach. It's very dry but it's very cool at night. During the day, the sun usually shines brightly. And it doesn't rain much.

Winter lasts from May to September. It usually rains and it's windy. The temperature is usually from 11℃ to 14℃.

Questions:

(1) Is the weather in New Zealand the same as in China?
(2) When is the best time to go swimming in New Zealand?
(3) What's the temperature in New Zealand in February?
(4) What's the weather like in New Zealand in September?

4 Do the project.

Step 1: Choose five cities in China.

Step 2: Find the weather in the five cities and fill in the table.
